Instructions for Presenters

1. Please check this Program for your presentation time(s) and room(s). Please go to the room five minutes before the session starts and report to the Session Chair.
2. Please do not exceed your allotted time. Please follow the instructions of the Session Chair.
3. If the Session Chair(s) is/are absent from the session, the last speaker should serve as the Session Chair.

Instructions for Session Chairs

Session chairs are kindly requested to do the following:

1. Calculate the time allocated for each paper in your session. The time allocated to a paper may be different in different sessions, due to uneven distributions of papers in different areas (the number to the left of a session in the "Conference Program" next page shows the number of papers allocated to this session) and a small number of absentees due to visa and other reasons.
2. Arrive at the room of the session five minutes before the session starts and identify each of the speakers for the session.
3. Do not allow presentations or the subsequent discussions to run beyond the starting time of the next presentation.
4. If the presenter of a paper is absent ("no-show"), please continue to the next presentation. Please check again at the end of the last presentation whether the "no-show" turns up. Best efforts have been made to reduce the number of no-shows; however, they may not be eliminated.
5. Each oral presentation room is equipped with an LCD projector. If something is not working properly, please contact conference staff.

Keynote Speaker

Hidekazu Iwamoto Ph.D

Affiliation & Position:

Assistant Professor, Josai International University, Japan

Title:

Current trends in Japanese inbound tourism: challenges and prospects

Abstract:

Japanese government announced the tourism nation promotion basic plan based on the tourism nation promotion basic law in 2007. In Japan, the total number of foreign visitors in 2017 reached over 28.69 million, which was the largest number since record began in 1964. The Japan Tourism Agency, inaugurated in October 2008, conducted inbound tourism policies such as the Visit Japan Campaign, the promotion of hosting and attracting MICE visitors as well as the encouragement of Japanese outbound travel. These policies have achieved some successes. At the same time, while the number of foreign visitors increases year on year, the Japanese tourism industry faces a severe shortage of human resources. In this keynote speech, I will propose some ideas based on the current situation and examine the challenges Japanese tourism faces.

Bio:

Dr. Hidekazu Iwamoto is an assistant professor at Josai International University since 2014. He received the doctoral degree from graduate school of Asia-Pacific studies at Waseda University in 2011. He is an invited researcher at Waseda University in 2011-2016. His current research interests include MICE, tourism informatics, ecotourism, and human resources of tourism industry. Some of the researches are presented in the international conferences. He also received research grants from government. In addition, He is commissioned as a regional key person, Hamamatsu and Lake Hamana Tourism Bureau.
